Don’t You Be My Neighbour | Rights Back At You

By Rights Back at You
February 28, 2023

Rowa Mohamed showed up to support her neighbours at an encampment eviction and was injured by police during the protest. Her experience of violence is not unusual – Black Muslim women are often treated with suspicion, like they don’t belong. What happens when people “fight crime” with home surveillance technology and treat their own neighbours as suspects?

[…]

Source: 3. Don’t You Be My Neighbour | Rights Back At You